Good News for December and January

Academic Team – At the Fleming County Academic Tournament the Varsity placed 5th overall, one of the JV teams tied for 3rd, and the JV team of Jenna Garofolo, Jared Wittrock, Ryan Field, Andrew Perrin, and Nicholas Dorsey won the JV Tournament.

Poetry Publication – Ali Coleman, Lauren Thornsberry, Allison Franzen, and Ivy Honkomp will have poems published in an anthology of student poetry. Carmen Schneider was included in an earlier publication.

JV Wrestling – The team won the Northern Ky. JV Conference tournament.

Project NEED Workshop – Linda Weber took a group of CCHS students to this workshop where they presented their energy station information to teachers. Ms. Weber was very proud of them as she received many compliments about what a good job they did and how polite and well-mannered they were. Kentucky's Project NEED director even asked if she could keep the posters our students made.

Cross Country – Robbie Scharold was named to the 2009 KHSAA Cross Country first team all state. Taylor Robinson was named a 2009 KHSAA Cross Country all state honorable mention.

Leadership Dynamics Clothing for a Cause – The Leadership Dynamics classes collected 527.5 pounds of clothing during their clothing drive.

Food Drive – The Foreign Language department along with Generation Believe collected over 300 food items for Campbell County families in need. Youth Alive and Generation Believe collected over 60 boxes of goodies for Operation Christmas Child.

National Collegiate Cross Country Championships – CCHS Alumnus Drew Harris, a junior at NKU, finished 16th out of 184 runners at the NCAA National Cross Country Championships in November.

The December Chorus Concert was great.

Jordan Parks, CCHS alumnus, is playing soccer at Transylvania and was named to the All-Conference Soccer Team.

Travis Painter, also a CCHS alumnus, is interning in Washington, DC for Senator McConnell.
