Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce CEO Steve Stevens will discuss the regional employment outlook through the year 2020 as well as the skills and competencies necessary for today's graduates to be globally competitive.

Why should parents and students attend?

- Find out which jobs will be in high demand.
- Discover which postsecondary options lead to success in the new economy.
- Determine which college majors to consider and why.
- Identify the skills needed to compete successfully in the future job market.

What are the implications for education professionals?

- How should we advise students as to their best college and career options?
- How does our vision of college and career readiness align with the future job market?
- Are we emphasizing the skills necessary for success?

Join us as we take a look into the future!
